

SLIGHT ADVANCE ON CROP DAMAGE REPORT

Weaker Tendency Is Shown in Wheat During Latter Part of Week—Corn Is Inactive, With Narrow Variations.

New York, February 13.—Barring a slight decline at the outset, the general tendency in domestic wheat markets early last week was upward, but there were numerous recessions, and the net changes were rather unimportant. Much of the time the variations were narrow, as the volume of business was somewhat small, traders being disinclined to take a permanent stand on either side. The initial depression was largely attributed to discouraging cable advices, European markets being depressed by the heavy world's shipments and the resultant increase in the quantity on passage.

Heavier Sentiment.
There was temporarily a preponderance of bearish sentiment, which was partly attributed to abundant receipts at the Northwest, notably at Minneapolis, where the arrivals were far in excess of the corresponding time last year. This influence was partly neutralized by the moderate receipts of winter wheat primary points, while the shipments into consumptive channels were fairly large, suggesting that there might be no accumulation in any of the big markets outside of Minneapolis. The subsequent strength was ascribed to fairly brisk buying for both accounts, stimulated in part by the unexpected decrease in the visible supply and partly by reports of damage to the crop in Illinois, Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma, where there was little or no snow protection, while the weather was unfavorable, being unseasonably cold during the day and comparatively mild at night, leading to alternate thawing and freezing, which is often one of the principal difficulties encountered at this season. Buying was also accelerated in part by the insignificant addition to the world's available supply, 25,000 bushels, against 3,415,000 a year ago.

Late Realizing by Speculators.
Late in the week the market was somewhat unsettled, with rather unimportant variations. There was less buoyancy, and part of the early improvement was lost. The change in the tempo was largely attributed to more encouraging crop reports, it being asserted that reports of damage, because of limited snow protection and alternate thawing and freezing, were exaggerated. This led to realizing by longs, as well as to bear pressure. Nevertheless, the decline was rather inconsequential, the downward tendency being checked in part by lighter primary receipts and by predictions of a small movement in the near future, it being claimed that farmers were refusing to accept current bids. Steadiness was also caused in part by somewhat better cables than expected, European markets showing firmness, owing in part to reports of decreased offerings for forward shipments from Australia and Argentina. This week's shipments from Argentina showed a decided enlargement, although they are still moderate compared with a year ago. This was not surprising, however, in view of the smaller surplus this season and the inferior quality. Exports have been doing practically nothing in domestic markets, as their limits were too low, but advices from Manitoba alluded to moderate sales for spring shipment.

Weakness in Corn.
There was a weaker tendency in the corn market early in the week, but afterwards a firmer feeling was developed. The initial weakness was traceable mainly to the materially larger receipts at primary points, notably in Chicago, while the cash demand was comparatively slow. The subsequent recovery was partly attributed to reports that the movement from the interior was showing unwillingness, as farmers were still unshaken. Much of this corn remaining in the fields was said to be in danger of damage, having been wet by snow or rain or by floods in lowlands. Hence, there were few forward orders, which feared that there would be a good deal of poor corn on the market in the spring. Exporters have been unable to accomplish anything of moment, as their limits were too low as a rule.

Sealed Proposals.

STATE ADOPTION OF HIGH SCHOOL TEXT BOOKS.—At a meeting of the State Board of Education held on January 19, 1910, an order was entered authorizing the secretary of the State Board of Education to advertise for bids in the matter of the selection of text books for high schools for a term of not less than four years, beginning August 1, 1910.

In accordance with the provisions of said resolution, I hereby give notice that on or before APRIL 15, 1910, at 12 o'clock noon, at the office of the State Board of Education, at Richmond, Va., sealed proposals will be received for supplying the public schools of the State of Virginia with text books for use in the high schools of the State as provided by law. Such proposals are requested on both the single list plan and the multiple list plan, and should state the prices at which each book offered will be sold to the schools and the exchange prices where such books shall take the place of a book now in use.

A circular giving a copy of the law under which this adoption is made and other particulars will be mailed on application.

The right is reserved to reject any and all bids.

MODERATE ACTIVITY IN COTTON MARKET

Prices During Past Week Were Firm—Chances of Great Acreage for New Crop. Speculators and Farmers.

New York, February 13.—The trading in cotton last week was moderately active, with the market showing all-around firmness, chiefly on large spot sales at Liverpool to Continental spinners and better trade conditions at Manchester, together with the continued strength of the Southern spot market. These conditions have caused a small preponderance of demand for futures here over recent selling, with the result that prices have averaged about $1 per bale higher than Monday's prices for the general option list. The principal strength has been in the near-by deliveries for the old crop, with March going up to 14.95, against 15.07 for May and 14.96 for July, against the lower bids of 14.75 for March and 14.71 for May and 14.75 for July, the low levels reached on Tuesday. Prices closed last night 8 to 14 points off from the extreme high prices, with May quoted at 14.99, July 14.82, against 14.96 for March. Total volume of business has ranged between 240,000 to 300,000 bales per day, which is the smallest in some weeks. This was against active spot sales averaging about 12,000 bales.

Little Selling Pressure.
The general situation and outlook have shown little change beyond the better demand for spot cotton at Liverpool and the continued absence of any important selling pressure from holders in the South. There has been talk of a reaction in general business, but so far nothing of importance has developed in the dry goods market or in the business at first hands in yards and cloths in the principal milling centers of either New England or the South. Prices for spot cotton at the principal interior and seaboard receiving points in the South continue to rule above a profitable shipping parity with this market, and here will not show any increase until these conditions change. The total amount of cotton now here in licensed warehouses is 160,000 bales, against 168,000 on February 1 and 130,000 a year ago. Of this amount 147,000 are of certified or contract grade, against 151,000 on February 1 and 115,000 last year. Most of this cotton is owned by the largest spot dealers and the old bulk clique, although the latter have shipped out in the past fortnight about 25,000 bales in the aggregate.

Movement of the Crop.
The movement of the crop has shown a slight increase this week in the amount brought into sight, but it was only 19,000 bales larger than a week ago. According to the report of the New York Cotton Exchange, 1,173,333 bales have come into sight, against 275,000 last year and 274,000 the corresponding week the previous year. This makes 8,570,000 bales marketed to date of this season's crop, against 11,152,000 last year and 8,762,000 the previous year. This leaves about 1,500,000 bales of the crop still to come.

PENALTY BEING PAID FOR RECKLESS EXCESS

Last Year's Speculative Operations Have Gone Away, and Effect Is Now Felt in Market.

New York, February 13.—The quieter and more settled conditions which developed in last week's stock market after the violent disturbance of Monday were regarded as evidence of progress in completing the precautionary steps called for by doubtful factors in the outlook by miscalculated action in the past. The character of the selling at the opening of the week left room for doubt that a penalty was being paid for reckless speculative excess in the period of rising prices last year.

There was no general agreement on the causes for this apparent miscarriage of large speculative movements. Such signs as have appeared of a lull in trade activity are interpreted both as cause and effect of the fall in prices of stock. That those are preliminary symptoms of a general trade revival is a view professed by some authorities with claims to being financial leaders. Better authority holds the opinion that the excess of the previous speculation itself is responsible for the violence of the reaction.

The heavy loan contraction by the banks, which has accompanied the deflation of stock market values, proves how far credit resources were depleted last year from supplying new capital requirements into speculative inflation of existing stock prices. The

PROPERTY OWNERS SEEK LOWER RATES

Cost of Fire Insurance in Newport News Is Now Being Investigated.

DECREASE IS EXPECTED

Common Council Will Meet to Discuss Legislative Measures.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Newport News, Va., February 13.—Newport News property owners are hoping that within the next few months they will enjoy fire insurance rates on a par with those given in other cities in Virginia. Because of the large number of frame houses in the city and, probably, on account of the fact that the paid fire department is maintained, the rates always have been higher here than in other cities of the Commonwealth, and time and again appeals for relief have been made without result. During the last few days, however, W. C. Cates, inspector of the Virginia department of the Southeastern Underwriters' Association, has been in Norfolk on a thorough investigation into conditions here for the purpose of making a report upon the advisability of giving the city lower rates. Mr. Cates went all over the city, noting the character of buildings, the condition of the streets, etc. He visited the three fire stations, inspecting the electric plant and held lengthy conferences with the fire chief, city electrician, city engineer and others. The city officials took care to point out that each of the three fire stations is equipped with an up-to-date steamer and hose wagon, while the central station has a modern aerial ladder truck and a combination chemical engine in addition to the steamer and other apparatus.

They called attention, too, to the fact that the total loss by fire in the city during the past year was less than companies have to pay less than $5,000. Mr. Cates will have nothing to say concerning the nature of the report he will make to his association, but the local officials are confident that it will be favorable.

To Discuss Bills.
There will be a special meeting of the Common Council Monday night for the purpose of discussing the Sale bill, giving bonds of school trustees the right to ask the corporation courts to order elections on school bond issues.

and the Love bill, requiring that school superintendents shall be citizens and voters of the district in which they are elected. Members of the Council are violently opposed to the Sale bill, and a resolution probably will be adopted calling upon the local representatives in the Legislature to vote and work against it. The Love bill also probably will be opposed.

Evangelistic Meetings.
A series of evangelistic meetings began at the Second Baptist Church this afternoon at 3 o'clock with a sermon by Rev. S. L. Naff, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, to men only. Tonight Rev. F. M. Wilson, of South Norfolk, preached to a large congregation. Mr. Wilson will preach at the church every evening for the next ten days.

Will Meet Thursday.
Arrangements have been completed for a basketball game between the quintet of the local Young Men's Christian Association and the team of the Richmond Association in the local gymnasium next Friday night. The local boys have defeated everybody that has come to this city this season, including the University of Virginia boys, and they are strong in the belief that they can hold their own with any aggregation of basketball players in the State. Notice has been received that the capital city team is a fast one, and the association enthusiasts are anticipating a lively contest.

Appoints Enumerators.
Judge Robinson, of the Circuit Court, has named twelve enumerators to take the census of Newport News, Hampton and Warwick and Elizabeth City counties. The object of this census is to furnish the assembly with data to be used when the question of rearranging the judicial circuits is considered.
